Dear Friends,

I would like to take this opportunity to wish you a happy and healthy Ramadan. In these uncertain times, many of us gather strength through moments with our families and in the observance of tradition. While the upcoming month of Ramadan will feature novel challenges including necessary closures and social distancing, I am heartened to hear that many of my constituents continue to make charitable contributions and support the neediest among us as members of our community face food insecurity and an uncertain financial future.

In particular, I would like to recognize the work of Islamic Relief USA, which has for years worked with the Muslim-American community to help those impacted by disasters around the world. In the midst of the COVID-19 crisis, IRUSA has once again supported those in need with food and hygiene materials, and recently provided a grant to the Muslim Women's Alliance, an organization in my congressional district, to maintain their food pantry. IRUSA and the Muslim Women's Alliance continue to do their part during this unprecedented emergency, and I thank them for their service to our community.

To all of my Muslim-American constituents and friends, may you have a healthy and fulfilling month ahead.

Mike Quigley
Member of Congress
