Dear friends,

Ramadan Mubarak! As Ramadan begins, I want to extend my best wishes for a month of peace and spiritual renewal. I hope the next several weeks offer you an opportunity to grow in your faith and spend time with loved ones. Although we cannot be together this year, I look forward to the day when we can once again connect in person and resume the annual tradition of the Capitol Hill Interfaith Ramadan Dinner.

I also want to thank Islamic Relief USA for all that they do to support the Muslim community in New York, across our country, and beyond. This pandemic has tested all of us in unthinkable ways, and Islamic Relief USA has met the moment by committing millions of dollars to ensure folks in communities around America have food on their table and a roof over their head. I'm so grateful for their leadership in these challenging times and look forward to working together in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,
