Assalamu alaikum,

Despite the tragedies and hardship of this once-in-a-generation pandemic year, our humanitarian relief work continued in service to and support of people all across the globe. 2020 was a year in which our ability to render aid to those in need was met with new and unexpected challenges to how we can do so in a COVID-19 pandemic environment. Safeguarding the health and well-being of our staff, volunteers, and people we serve meant adapting IRUSA operations without compromising on quality and excellence.

Social distancing and remote work allowed our operations to continue in earnest but deprived us of the in-person community that we look forward to throughout the year: praying together, breaking fast together, and gathering together for any and all occasions.

Along with our $10 million pledge to help those around the world affected by COVID-19, we encountered a year marked by wildfires, floods, earthquakes, harsh winters, and violent conflicts. And through it all, we supported people striving to improve their livelihood, food and water security, and standard of living. The numbers speak volumes: nearly 5 million total beneficiaries, more than $52 million spent on international and domestic aid in 41 countries, and more than 600 relief projects.

As you'll read in the ensuing pages, these numbers mark the stories of resilience, courage, and commitment of people everywhere working for a better world. From helping COVID-19 frontline workers, to responding to disasters and emergencies, to supporting women, children, and families, your aid made a critical difference. We invite you to join us in appreciating the significance of that impact.

With gratitude,

Sharif Aly
Chief Executive Officer
Islamic Relief USA
The overall financial figures in this report were drawn from our 2020 audited financial statements or 2020 IRS Form 990, which were both calculated on an accrual basis. Detailed country financial data was drawn from grant reports and reports from the implementing party in the field. The 41 countries mentioned on this page include the U.S. Estimates of total people served are based on project reports from the implementing party in the field or other quantifiable data sources. The total is calculated by including any person who received aid in 2020 through an IRUSA-funded project or Gifts in Kind aid. For projects funded and implemented over several years, it’s possible for the same person to receive aid over several years and thus be included more than once. In this circumstance, we count that person once per calendar year. A person of multiple projects may be counted more than once.

In 2020, donors assisted in response to COVID-19 with domestic and international initiatives. While a project could be categorized in more than one sector, they are assigned to only one. Data includes IRUSA’s distribution of bulk item donations (Gifts in Kind) like medications, medical supplies, and vital foods.

In 2020, IRUSA supported people across the world with direct services and bulk item donations, with Africa and the Middle East being strongly represented. The chart displays total people served by region for both international and domestic projects.

When the COVID-19 pandemic caused unprecedented lockdowns around the globe, it impacted the ways we work, live, and serve. For IRUSA, that meant leaning forward with new ways to manage our relief operations with an increase in virtual and no contact approaches. Our rapid adaptation to this new reality led to changes in how we interfaced with employees, volunteers, and supporters; communicated within and across our teams; conducted travel, and transformed many of our activities and events from in-person to virtual—all to ensure continued programmatic response and the safety and well-being of our staff and volunteers and those we serve.

From the very onset of the pandemic, unfolding developments from the CDC and other federal health and safety officials guided our safety practices every step of the way. From fundraising to leveraging virtual event spaces to establishing the IRUSA COVID-19 Taskforce, we adapted our operations so that we could continue to engage with our audiences in meaningful ways, raise funds for important humanitarian programming, care for our staff through robust measures such as the Employee Assistance Program, and implement programs in a safe environment. For example, our Thanksgiving turkey distribution program offered home delivery to safeguard the health of our employees, staff, volunteers, and meal recipients. COVID-19 affected each of us individually and as an organization, yet we remained steadfast in our commitment to our mission and achieved a year of strong performance in the face of formidable challenges.

"Every front line worker has a uniform they wear. When we wear our blue shirts it activates a duty and an obligation to serve and assist those in need around the world regardless if it is a hurricane, famine, flood, or worldwide pandemic. It has not been easy but our Creator only gives us what we can handle. We have responded with more work than any time in our history and I have been proud to wear the uniform of Islamic Relief USA."
