Dear Friends,

During the holy month of Ramadan, please accept my warm greetings as you enter this joyous period of introspective prayer, recommitment to service, and communal celebration. As a woman of deep faith, I understand a commitment to growing closer to God and demonstrating our conviction through acts of service and sacrifice.

I commend Islamic Relief USA and our Muslim community in Delaware for their work supporting those at home and across the globe who struggle to access health care, reliable food, safe learning, and financial security. Ramadan reminds us to help and love one another and to always serve those who do not have the means to support themselves. It is my sincere hope that you and your family will enjoy this time of community and renewal.

Again, I wish you all a blessed and happy month of reflection, fasting, and celebration. Ramadan Mubarak!

Sincerely,

LISA BLUNT ROCHESTER
